Exciting 2013

As we begin a new year, I can't resist the temptation to make a list of some of the things I am looking forward to in 2013:

* The arrival of our new Children's Librarian, GERALYN SCHULTZ, who will help develop new programs and services for children and their families.

* The celebration of our newly designed Children's Department. We have made lots of changes, including new paint, shelving, furniture and carpet to update the space and make it more welcoming to all. We are planning a celebration and will provide more details in early 2013.

* The development of our

new Home Delivery service to bring the library to those who cannot come here because of health or transportation issues!

* The implementation of a grant to hold Conversation Circles for those English Language Learners who would like to practice their English skills in an informal group setting.

* The arrival of new PCs throughout the library. Thanks go to the Mayor and City Council for this much needed update!

* Working with the Marlborough Downtown Village committee to develop programs that will help promote downtown and the City's new official Cultural District designation from the Massachusetts Cultural Council.

* Our Friends spring program calendar, including their author series, which brings many interesting authors to Marlborough.

* Getting to know more Marlborough residents and learning how the Library can meet their needs.

A Fond Farewell to Necia Blundy

Our Children's Librarian, Necia Blundy, recently left our library to return to her home state of Washington with her family. Necia has been at the Marlborough Public Library since October 2007 and was hired by our previous director Sal Genovese. With her upbeat disposition, engaging smile and infectious laughter, she spent five years nurturing the Children's Room to become the warm and welcoming place that it remains today.

Due to Necia's leadership and the efforts of her fellow staff, we were able to grow the Summer Reading program, increasing its number of participants two years in a row. Last summer, 468 participants registered, beating out the previous year's total of over 300. Over 5,597 reading hours were logged by our voracious young readers last summer!

Necia not only held awesome Summer Reading events, but also brought in lots of successful programming, such as a variety of story times, monthly programs, and great author visits like Jeanne Birdsall and Lenore Look. For older children, she expanded children's programming to include book groups, a ## Technology Questions? Reference is Here to Help!

The Reference Department at the Marlborough Public Library is planning some exciting programs for the winter months. We will still be offering technology help for those who are getting frustrated with their devices. Bring in your laptops, tablets, Kindles, Nooks, or your smart phones and we will try to figure out whatever it is you need.

For our special programs we will be looking at our new culinary database and exploring some of the volumes from our wonderful 641 (cooking and baking) collection. We are also in the process of updating our 747 collection—interior design. An evening looking at fantastic rooms and websites that can help you plan a project may get you out of the winter doldrums. Watch for other programs coming in the future.

Children's Room Makeover!

If you haven't had the chance to visit the Children's Room lately, you should! We have recently renovated the space and it looks amazing!

With new carpeting, wooden shelves, forest themed furniture and a fresh coat of paint, it feels like a brand new place! New computers arrived the beginning of January, five of which are for children grades 5 and below, and a special sixth computer has been added just for parents. We also have more tables for additional space to complete homework, make a puzzle, etc.

During our remodel, we moved a lot of materials to new locations, but don't worry if you are a little lost. Our Children's staff can help you find any items you need.

Make sure to stay tuned for details about a celebration for our newly remodeled Children's Room.

This makeover has been generously funded by the joint efforts of the City of Marlborough, the Marlborough Public Library Foundation, and the Trustees of the Marlborough Public Library, along with annual grant funds provided by the Massachusetts Board of Library Commissioners.

science program, and a variety of art and craft sessions. The Children's staff also targeted early elementary school kids with Afternoon Adventures and American Girl club which Stephanie Nogler runs and which now has two separate sessions due to its popularity.

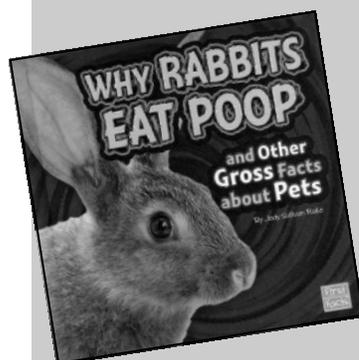

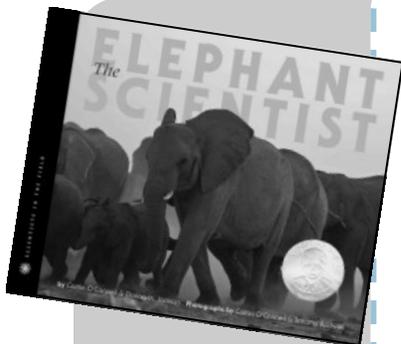

Through her connection with the elementary schools and by making visits to the 3rd through 5th graders, Necia was able to relay the importance of the public library in their lives for school research as well as leisure time pursuits. "I have to say that I was always very impressed by how much they seemed to like reading and talking about books when I visited them for my book talks," Necia fondly recalls. "They usually loved sharing books they read with me and it was great fun to discuss them and see the kids get excited about the books I shared."

Necia has been gone since the end of October. What she misses the most are the kids and families she got to know. Marlborough was the first community she worked in where she saw such a vast love for and interest in books from the children who frequented the library. She also misses the wonderful kids in her story times and book groups, especially her Muggles, who are an amazing group of readers and thinkers. They always had lots of fun. She also adds that she wouldn't have been able to achieve as much as she did without the great staff whom she relied upon for all of their creativity and innovative ideas. Working in the Children's Department was a team effort.

We at the library would like to thank Necia for the fantastic work she did while here. Necia, we miss you lots and wish you well in your future endeavors!

From Our Music Shelves to Your Player

Looking for something new to listen to? Check out these selections from our music collection.

Gin Blossoms – Outside Looking In: The Best of the Gin Blossoms
(CD Pop GIN)

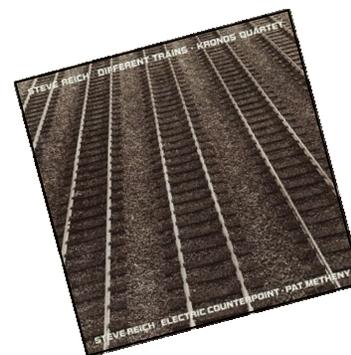

The Gin Blossoms are a pop rock band best recognized by their work in the 1990s. They are known for their distinctive lead guitar and thoughtful lyrics, both contributed by late co-founder Doug Hopkins. "Outside Looking In" contains a number of songs that are instantly familiar from local radio stations, including "Hey Jealousy," "Found Out About You," and "Follow You Down."

Steve Reich – Different Trains
(CD Classical REI)

Steve Reich is a famous modern classical composer, best known as a pioneer of minimalist music. "Different Trains" is based on Reich's experiences as a child, traveling between New York and Los Angeles by train in the early 1940s. In Reich's words, "While these trips were exciting and romantic at the time, I now look back and think that, if I had been in Europe during this period, as a Jew I would have had to ride very different trains." He expresses this through speech samples taken from several sources, a string quartet and recordings of American and European trains. The result is a relentless and haunting three-movement musical portrayal of a horrifying time in history.
