eBooks vs Print

People often ask me whether the popularity of electronic books means the end of the printed book. I always answer "definitely not!" A recent Washington Post headline on this topic caught my eye. It read "Why digital natives prefer reading in print. Yes, you read that right."

The college students that were interviewed admitted that they "like the feeling" of a book and that they like "holding it." Textbook makers, bookstore owners and college student surveys all say millennials still strongly prefer print for pleasure and learning. "A University of Washington pilot study of digital textbooks found that a quarter of students still bought print versions of e-textbooks that they were given for free." One theory as to why is that readers tend to skim on screens, while print readers read more carefully and find the text easier to follow. Pew Research Institute's studies show the highest print readership rates among those 18-29 and the same age group is still using public libraries in large numbers.

Margaret Cardello,
Library Director

Researchers say that "readers remember the location of information simply by page and text layout... say the key piece of dialogue was on that page early in the book with that one long paragraph and a smudge on the corner. Researchers think this plays a key role in comprehension."

This activity is more difficult on screens, primarily because most of us skim and scan. Students are also much more likely to multitask when reading on screen. "You just get so distracted. It's like if I finish a paragraph, I'll go on Facebook and then 3 hours later I'm still not done reading."

Libraries have long realized that different formats work in different situations. Many travelers love e-books or books on CD. Their portability is a huge advantage. Many who read in their leisure time at home love print. Cuddling up with a cup of tea and a good book is irreplaceable. The print book is here to stay for a long time to come.

Summer Reading Starts June 20th!

After a winter as long as the one that we saw, everyone is anxious for summer to begin. In the library, we're even more excited, because summer means the Summer Reading Program. This year's theme is superheroes, and we are super excited about it!

We will be kicking off the summer with a bang on Saturday, June 20th, with an all-day event for all ages. From 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., you can take part in our Hero Games: complete puzzles and challenges, and earn raffle tickets for special prizes. Also scheduled:

- 10 a.m. to 12 p.m.—A visit from a very special superhero
- 12 noon—Hero Costume Contest. Dress up as your favorite hero for a chance to win a life-size cardboard cutout of Batman!
- 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.—Get your picture drawn by a caricature artist
- 1:30 p.m. to 4 p.m.—Older kids, teens, and adults should stick around to see The Avengers (PG-13).

- 4 p.m.—Raffle prizes awarded! And that's just for opening day!

The rest of the summer is shaping up to be pretty amazing, too. There will be performers, special programs, crafts, and (as always) opportunities to win fabulous prizes just by reading. The more you read, the better your chances of winning.

Younger kids may enjoy picking a prize from our treasure box, while older ones might prefer to enter a ticket into our raffle drawings.

Teens can earn scratch tickets by checking out different items. Each ticket gives a chance to win an instant prize or can be used to enter into the grand prize giveaway.

Don't worry, adults: we have a reading program for you, too! The more you read, the better your odds of winning... but trying something new might get you extra chances.

Expand Your Horizons

As winter finally begins to thaw and we can all start looking ahead to summer, it is time to think about trying new things and gaining new experiences. Here at the library, that is an easy task, because books can open up the rest of the world for you. On our round display table near the fiction section, make sure to check out our Poetry display throughout the month of April and don't miss the International Authors display that we will have in May. Or teach yourself to cook with one of our numerous new cookbooks, including many internationally inspired dishes. Books like International Night: A Father and Daughter Cook Their Way Around the World by Mark Kurlansky (NEW! 641.59 Kur) can introduce you to a wide variety of recipes and techniques, or something like Indian for Everyone: The Home Cook's Guide to Traditional Favorites by Anup Singh (NEW! 641.5954 Sin) and Mexico: The Cookbook by Margarita Carrillo Arronte (NEW! 641.5972 Car) can help you learn more about a specific culture. Stop by the reference desk to get help identifying more books to suit your interests!

Wanted: English Conversation Circle Leaders

Would you like to volunteer to help English as a Second Language learners improve their English? We need group leaders who can guide a conversation, make sure everyone speaks, and who can commit to regularly scheduled sessions. No formal teaching experience is needed, but please do have some ideas for conversations, and for when you would like to convene a group. Interested? Contact Miriam Achenbach at machenbach@cwmmars.org or at 508-624-6992.

How Does Your Garden Grow?

Spring is in the air and the time to think about your garden is now. Throughout the spring we are pleased to offer classes, led by Gretel Anspach, on various ways to plant and plan your garden. Gretel Anspach is a Trustee of Mass Hort, a Lifetime Master Gardener, past-president of the Massachusetts Master Gardener Association and a systems engineer for Raytheon. Gretel is also a member of the Garden to Table committee at Mass Hort and helped to establish and maintain a food production garden at Raytheon that has provided fresh produce to the Marlboro Food Pantry for five years.

Join us on:

- Thursday April 16 for Organic Vegetable Gardening 101
- Thursday May 21 for Plant Propagation 101
- Thursday June 11 for Landscaping 101

All classes will take place at 6 PM in the Bigelow Auditorium and are free and open to the public. Please check our website calendar for more details and contact Anne Rouillard, Reference Librarian, either by phone (508-624-6992) or e-mail (arouillard@cwmmars.org) with any questions.
