Each individual location has a different process and you may be required to register at their site before your visit. For details, please be sure to click on the name of the pass you would like to reserve.

Museums and parks are starting to reopen, but not all are accepting library passes at this time. However, a select few are now available to reserve here. Here's what you need to know before reserving a pass:

- Each individual location has a different process and you may be required to register at their site before your visit. For details, please be sure to click on the name of the pass you would like to reserve.
- Most passes will need to be picked up via Contactless Holds Pickup and appointment. The library is not currently open on the weekends, so you will need to plan ahead to pick up a Saturday or Sunday pass.
