

Dear Marlborough Community,

Another month comes to a close, and with that we get ever closer to our new library! This month we finally saw a little bit of winter weather, but that didn't slow down any progress being made. A lot of work was still able to be completed outside, which included the site work and electrical for the transformer and generator. I'm excited to not have to worry about power outages. Windows are being installed, including some of the larger curtain walls that will bring so much light into the library.

Inside, we saw painting and more drywall. The rooms are really coming together, and it's so great to be able to see the spaces in their actual size. Some of the custom millwork was delivered and is being installed. Beautiful hexagonal tiles are lining the walls of the restrooms.

As we get closer to move-in date, library staff are preparing. We're winding down some of our programming, to allow time for this preparation. Can you believe we've been in the Walker building for 2 years? As you can imagine, we've made this place home, and moving back will be a big project.

We've had a lot of fun wildlife sightings on the job site, including rescuing 2 barred owls. Another one was just spotted roosting in the staging area!

Warm Regards,

Sara Belisle

Director of the Marlborough Public Library
