

APRIL 27, 2020

Weekly Digest

learn, play, and explore from home

Take a Virtual Stroll

Enjoy a virtual walk through the cherry blossoms at Brooklyn Botanic Garden. Watch this 18-minute immersive video and soak in some springtime joy.

THIS WEEK'S BOREDOM BUSTER

Access free guided workouts from YMCA360: yoga, Tai Chi, pilates, and more! The entire video library is open to the public. You just need to make a free account. Now get moving!

LIBRARY LINKS

Previous Weekly Digests

Library Closure FAQs

Staying Entertained at Home
We're always adding more links!

COVID-19 Resource Page

Children's Virtual Programs

Teen Virtual Programs

Follow us on Facebook

CONTACT US

We can answer your questions
Monday to Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

(508) 624-6900

marlboroughreference@cwmar.org

Sci-Fi Fridays

Every Friday evening, Reference Librarian Danielle will post a short book discussion for those of you who miss Science Book Club. Her first video covered novels about dragons and nonfiction books about evolution. Tune in this Friday on our Facebook page for some more great reads!

YA Author Jason Reynolds: Write. Right. Rite.

Jason Reynolds, popular YA author and current Ambassador for Young People's Literature, started this new video series to promote imagination and creative expression during COVID-19 isolation. In each video he shares a prompt, including this recent example: you know what you would write in a letter to your hero, but can you imagine what they would write back to you? If you need a big smile today (and maybe some happy tears), read this sweet submission from a kid named Lewis and then see his hero's real response here.

A new GRAB THE MIC video series from Jason Reynolds.
Write. Right. Rite.

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS presents
JASON REYNOLDS GRAB THE MIC TELL YOUR STORY

National Ambassador for Young People's Literature